Hey guys. This is a packed edition. We set off with some satire writing; getting to know the Divas who enjoy the front seat and the guys who are kings of the front seat. We all do know someone like that.

After that, we suggest a few tips on how you can save if you are a student. It's not boring. You will like it.

The music section is back again by popular request. We update your playlist with music from different parts of Africa. Prepare your ears. They will be globetrotting really soon.

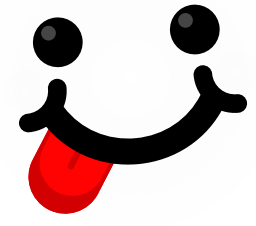

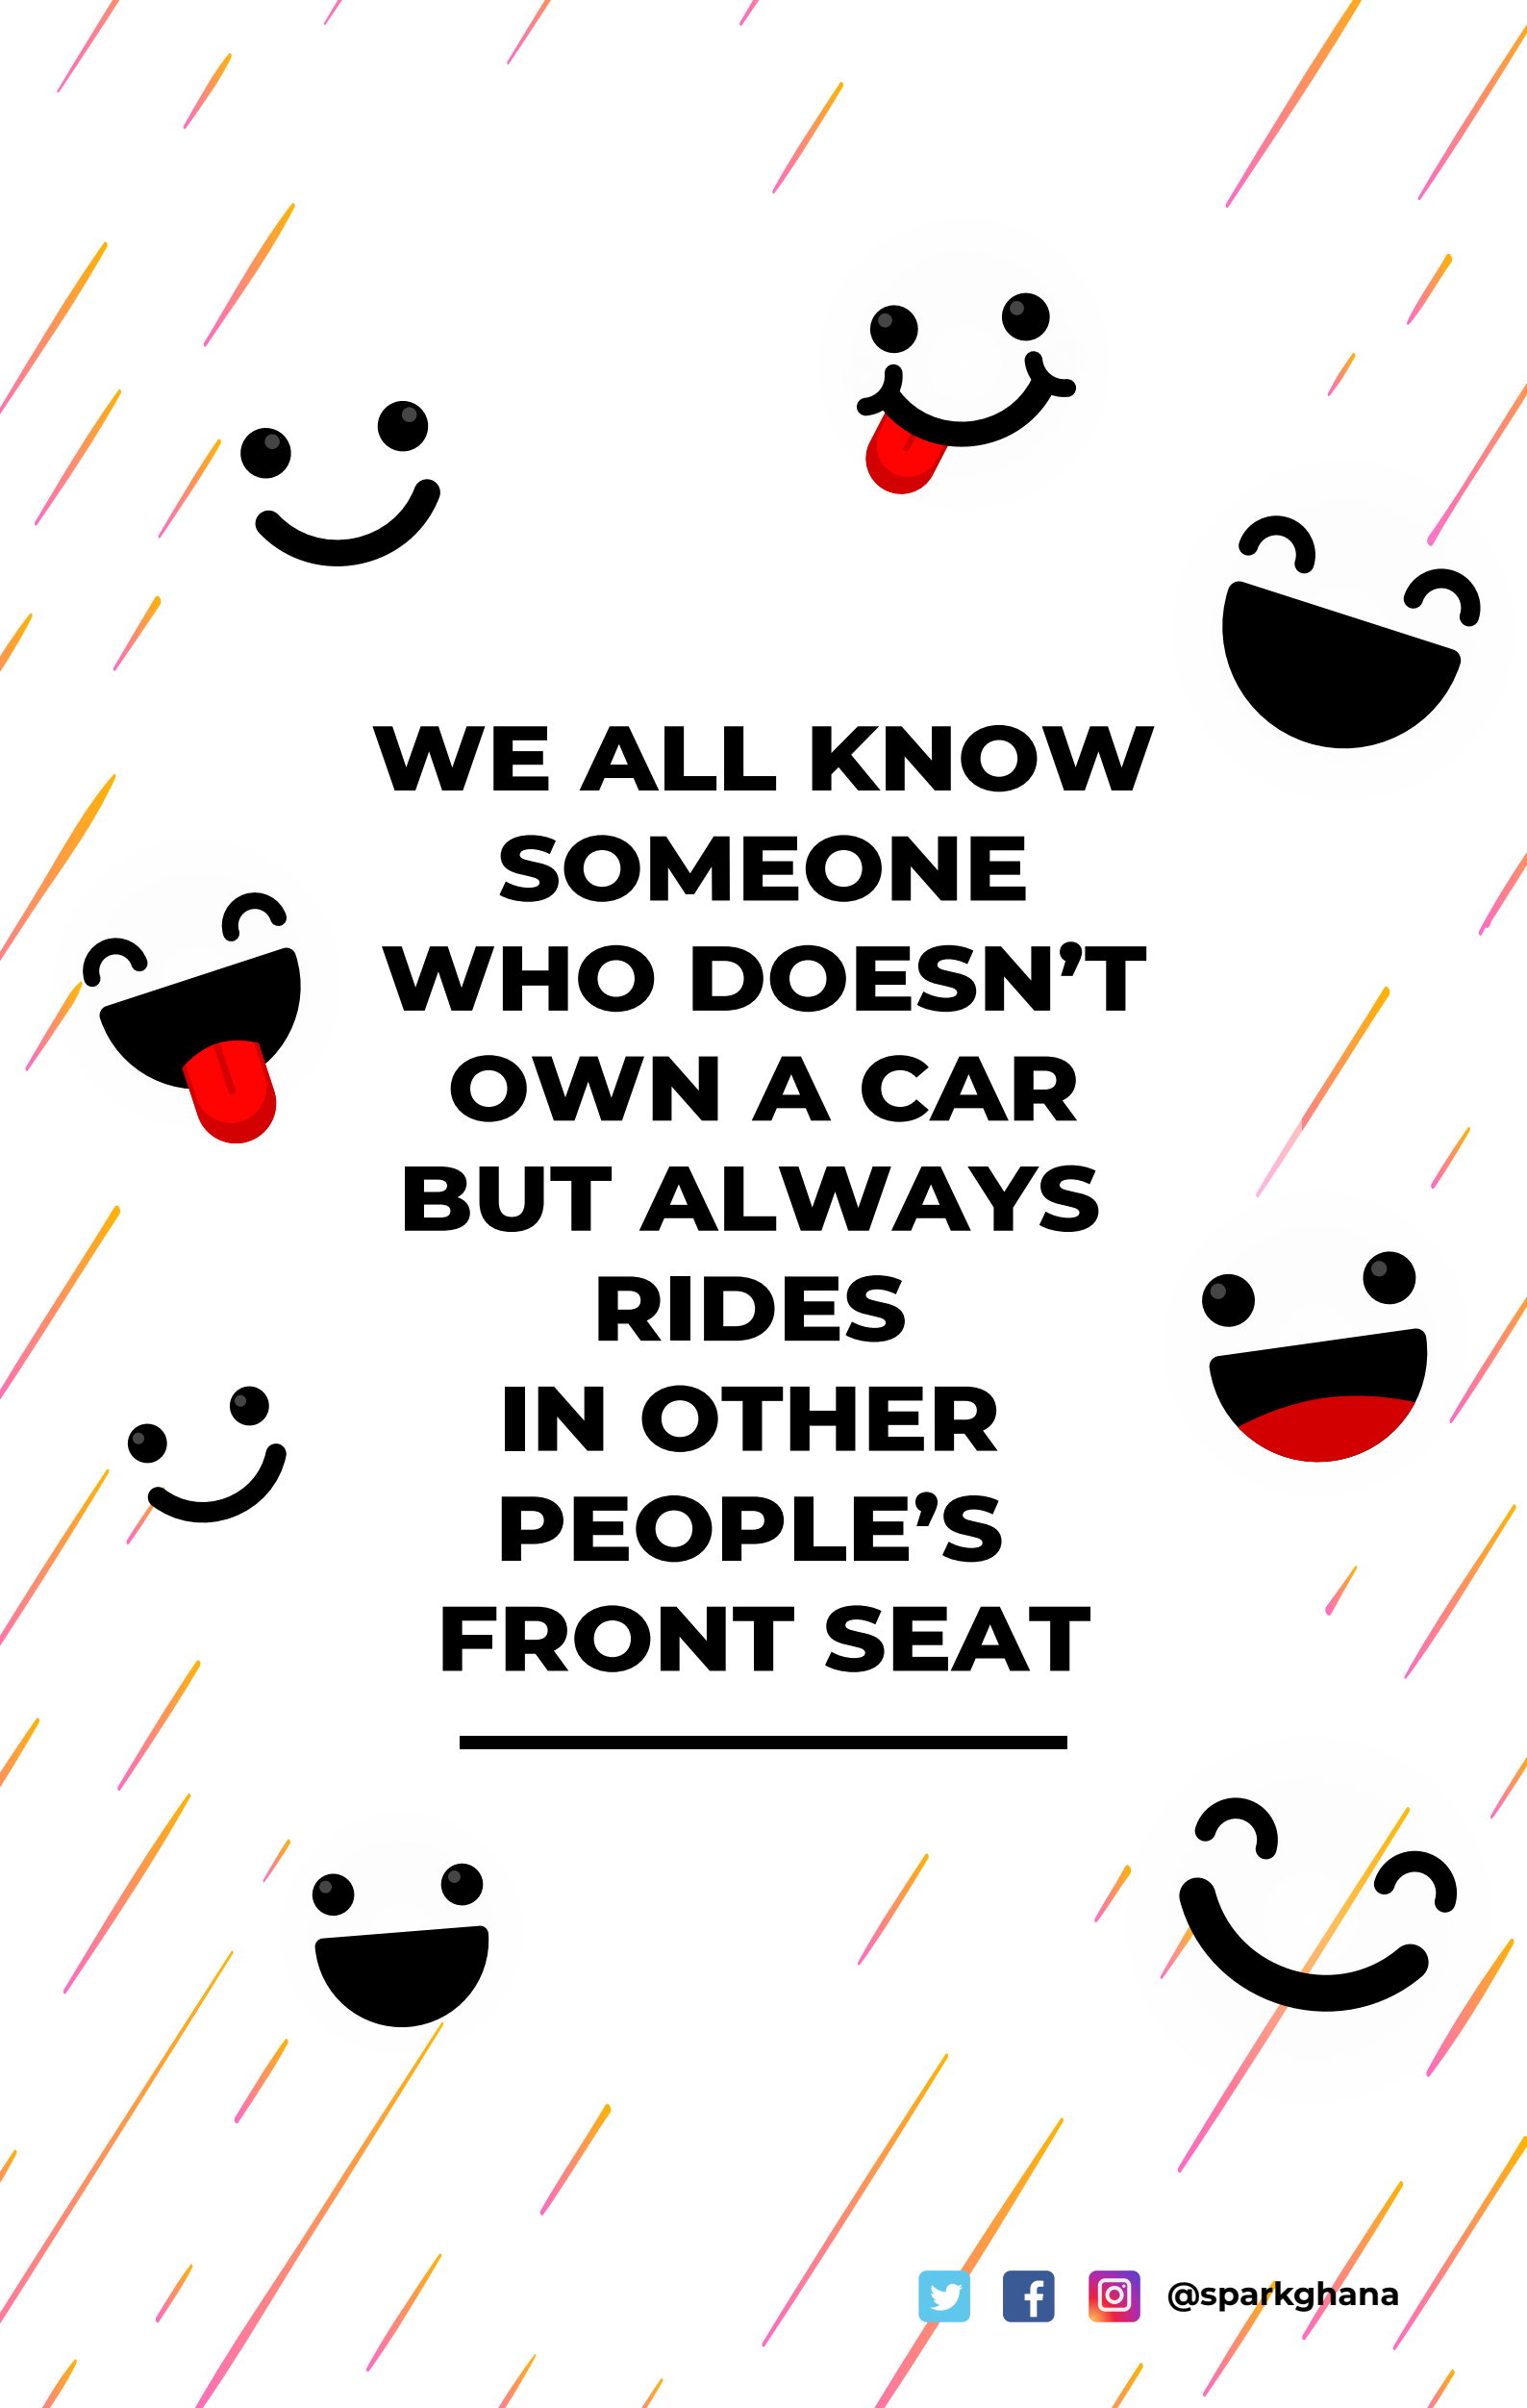

Let's hear from you please.

THE FRONT SEAT DIVA

Divas and Slay queens who don't own a car but are always chauffeured around for free deserve some recognition. Even though all her close friends own cars, she is quick to remind everyone that "Oh! Our friendship is more than the car" But really, the friendship runs on an engine.

When asked why she doesn't own a car herself, she has an interesting story.

"I have a car at home but my parents want me to finish driving school before they give it to me"

But we are not going to call her an opportunist... no! She is great partner for konkonsa and gisting. She has the 411 about everyone on campus. She knows how many views the newest YouTube couple got for their last video. She even knows the girls ex and remembers the day she was walking out of his room at 5am.

Our rides are never complete without them because after all, its fun having a ride along friend who Snapchats and performs a car karaoke with you as you drive.

KING OF THE FRONT SEAT

You may think of the front seat guy as the hype man of a famous rapper but he is way more than that. He is more like a kingpin of the streets. Wherever there's a party, he's been there before. He is the chicks papa, pro hustler and all round BOSS.

When the ticket to that big show is finished, he knows a guy who knows a guy who knows a guy who will get the whole squad inside for free. In fact scratch that, he is one of the organizers.

He is the guy with most followers on Instagram. Go through his timeline and most of his pictures show him standing next to a car or behind the steering wheel. He has been careful to brand himself like that.

With all these super powers, it's not surprising the driver of the car always wants him around. Because truly, without him, the driver won't fully enjoy the attention and benefits owning a car on these Ghanaian streets brings.

MONEY MATTERS FOR YOUR YOUTHFUL SOUL

One truth about being young is that you never have enough money. Well...unless your Dad is the President or you recorded a song which became an overnight hit and you are suddenly an accidental millionaire. If you are not any of these, then you may have to manage how you spend the little you have so you can save some money to buy your Range Rover before 40 or travel the world as you've always wanted to do.

BUDGET FOR EVERYTHING

Put money down every month towards buying clothes, going to the movies, late-night snacks, books and chilling. This helps you stick within your budget and allows you to save a portion of money every month

SAVE BEFORE SPEND

Sign up for a savings account with any preferred bank, request for a standing order with your bank. This allows you to save before any money is apportioned for spending.

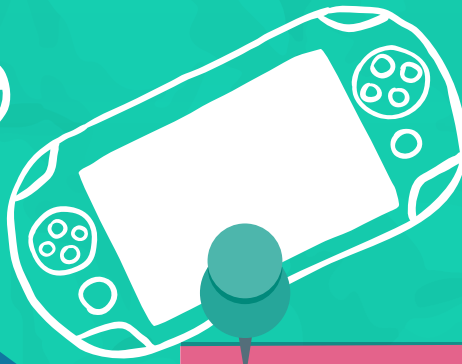

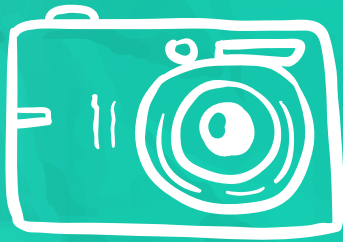

GET USED SCHOOL BOOKS FROM SENIORS

New books and photocopies can be very expensive. Make friends with your seniors in your faculty or departments and ask them to give you their txt books once the academic year is over.

FIND FUN FOR FREE

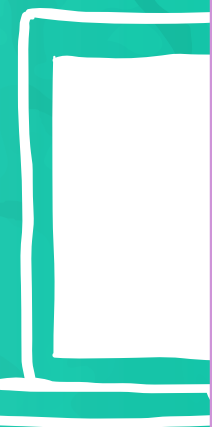

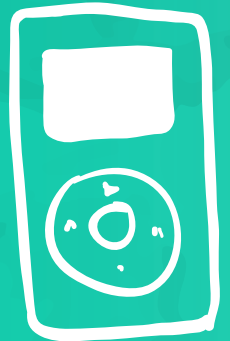

It's tempting to go out to eat and plan social activities that revolve around spending money. Find fun worthy activities by campus groups that won't require you to spend a dime. You can also plan outings with friends so you split the cost evenly.

ALWAYS REMEMBER THAT THERE IS RICE AT HOME

Remember when your mum said "there is rice at home" anytime you wanted her to buy food from outside, cooking at home saves a lot of money. A lot can be saved by purchasing ingredients from the local market and making the most of leftovers

UP YOUR HUSTLE

If you have some time, then you can find work on campus or outside campus to earn some extra cash. Of course this job shouldn't distract you from concentrating on school work. This job may not be an office executive looking job, but you may gain some experience and earn some money to support you in school.

UPDATE YOUR PLAYLIST +

If you are all about the bass and treble, then you are going to love this. We are taking your ears globetrotting in this episode of Update your Playlist. We've curated 9 musicians from all over Africa that you can check out. Whatever your vibe is, there is a song for you.

01+

JODY PHIBI FOR YOU

Coming from Rwanda, this talented lady sings beautifully on bubbly groovy instrumentals. In this song, she is expressing her love for a fine gentleman. The video to this song is absolutely beautiful. Check it out on YouTube anytime.

CHANDA MBAO WHO

This Zambian tune will have you milly rocking from start to finish. Chanda has the voice, the looks and definitely the message. In this song, he asks his estranged lover who she has been spending so much time with on her Phone. Check out the video on YouTube and rock to it.

02+

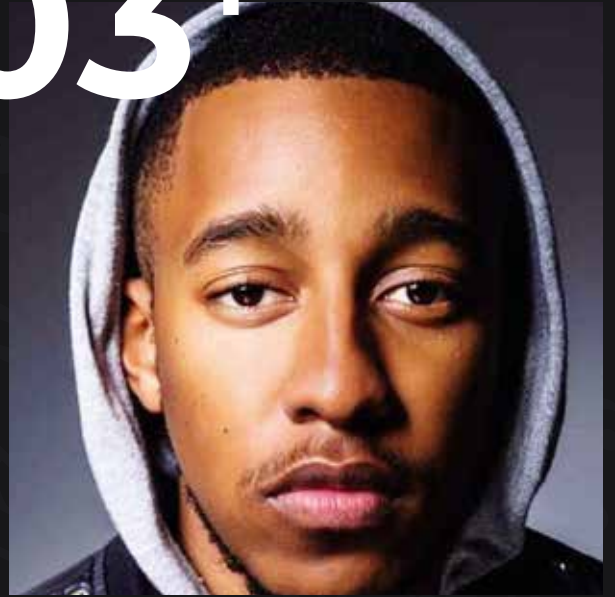

TENDANESS

JIKA

Coming outta Swaziland, record producer, DJ and songwriter Tendaness touches the soul with this song. JIKA is the kind of tune to groove to with your pals in the car on a Friday night. Great tune to start the party with too. Discover his music and be blown away.

GAMBO

AYEAYE

This song from Ghanaian musician Gambo is wavy and fun. It comes as no surprise that Gambo has Fortune Dane sing the chorus with him. AYEAYE will be pumping through your speakers after you give it a listen. Pay attention to this chap. He will be headlining shows soon.

MOOLA4AFEATURE

YOUR TURN

YOUR TURN is a very 'contemporary' wave, an unapologetic hip hop and mumble tune. Moola collaborates with Xavier on this and it's nothing less of awesome. On this tune the South African goes to say he is not catching feelings so ladies be warned because with his looks and amazing talent you just might.

ROSA REE UP IN THE AIR

The Tanzanian rapper describes herself as the rap goddess. There is no doubt about that. Just give UP IN THE AIR a spin and discover Rosa Ree for yourself. Her bars are up in the air, her flow acid, and her style wild. This tune sure bangs. Check her video out on YouTube.

SMAC THIS WAY

This Nigerian rapper switches between English and Hausa so seamlessly. This song has a smooth chorus and smac's verses seem so carefully written. Smac is dope to the core. We will leave you to discover his music for yourself. Add THIS WAY to your playlist and enjoy good music.

ABIR PLAYGROUND

From the Moroccan born and New York based musician, PLAYGROUND is a typical party song where everyone in attendance will be up with red cups in hand screaming every single word, moving and bumping their heads. Abir is definitely one to watch out for. The Moroccan damsel is the total package and PLAYGROUND is all sorts of good vibes.

08+

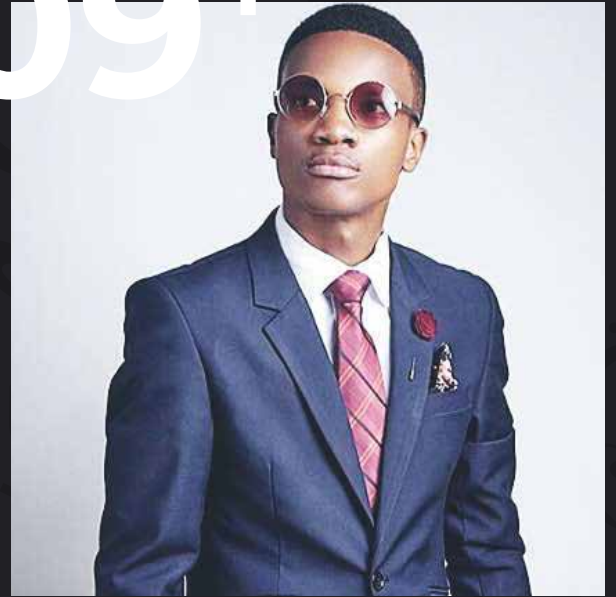

REYNOLDS THE GENTLEMAN

UHUUH

Ghanaian music producer and singer Reynolds the Gentleman is definitely one musician you should pay attention to. Reynolds can do absolutely anything on a beat. On this song, The Gentleman features Manifest. It's a bundle of creative awesomeness you definitely don't want to miss.
